Save Our Downtown Park!

E-mail: mayorandcouncil@townofchapelhill.org

The Chapel Hill Town Council is close to approving a contract that would hand over Wallace Plaza, downtown's community park, to a non-profit group that wants to build a 15,000 square foot building on the site. The plaza is a peaceful place lined with trees and flowers where people go to eat lunch, stroll, and enjoy a break from downtown noise and traffic. Community groups can currently rent the space at low-cost rates for special events, such as the nationally celebrated Hi Mom! Film Festival, and the town sponsors concerts and movies on the plaza that are enjoyed by thousands of community members.

The private, non-profit group that wants to build on the space (Kidzu Children's Museum) is also an asset to the town, but with an annual budget of $400,000 has other options to fund their expansion besides destroying Wallace Plaza, a publicly-owned treasure that benefits all the citizens of Chapel Hill.

We, the undersigned Chapel Hill residents, strongly oppose any attempt to change Wallace Plaza, and urge the Council to reject this proposed contract.

The Chapel Hill Town Council is close to approving a contract that would hand over Wallace Plaza, downtown's community park, to a non-profit group that wants to build a 15,000 square foot building on the site. The plaza is a peaceful place lined with trees and flowers where people go to eat lunch, stroll, and enjoy a break from downtown noise and traffic. Community groups can currently rent the space at low-cost rates for special events, such as the nationally celebrated Hi Mom! Film Festival, and the town sponsors concerts and movies on the plaza that are enjoyed by thousands of community members.

The private, non-profit group that wants to build on the space (Kidzu Children's Museum) is also an asset to the town, but with an annual budget of $400,000 has other options to fund their expansion besides destroying Wallace Plaza, a publicly-owned treasure that benefits all the citizens of Chapel Hill.

We, the undersigned Chapel Hill residents, strongly oppose any attempt to change Wallace Plaza, and urge the Council to reject this proposed contract.

The Chapel Hill Town Council is close to approving a contract that would hand over Wallace Plaza, downtown's community park, to a non-profit group that wants to build a 15,000 square foot building on the site. The plaza is a peaceful place lined with trees and flowers where people go to eat lunch, stroll, and enjoy a break from downtown noise and traffic. Community groups can currently rent the space at low-cost rates for special events, such as the nationally celebrated Hi Mom! Film Festival, and the town sponsors concerts and movies on the plaza that are enjoyed by thousands of community members.

The private, non-profit group that wants to build on the space (Kidzu Children's Museum) is also an asset to the town, but with an annual budget of $400,000 has other options to fund their expansion besides destroying Wallace Plaza, a publicly-owned treasure that benefits all the citizens of Chapel Hill.

We, the undersigned Chapel Hill residents, strongly oppose any attempt to change Wallace Plaza, and urge the Council to reject this proposed contract.
