

For the past 15 years, the Orange County rural buffer has successfully fulfilled its purpose as a growth boundary for Chapel Hill-Carrboro, while maintaining the area's rural character.

The current zoning and limitations associated with poor soil drainage have protected the buffer from excessive development. We are concerned that alterations in zoning regulations will have the effect of accelerating residential housing development in the buffer, or weaken its utility as an urban growth management tool.

The rural buffer serves to increase property values within Chapel Hill-Carrboro and serves as a rural "backyard" where hiking, biking, scenic driving and other recreational options abound.

As residents of the buffer, we strongly urge the signatories of the Joint Planning Agreement to extend the annexation provisions of the JPA for another 20 years.
